

3. Now, you and your group can make a poster that illustrates the cost of conflict according to the section of Brahm's article that you were assigned. Please include interesting facts, examples, and pictures to illustrate his points. Use the following rubric to gauge the quality of your work.

Outstanding	Meets the Standard	Needs Improvement
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>You met the standard in a particularly creative manner</li> </ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Your poster is put together in a clear, understandable manner, and the main idea is easily recognizable.</li> <li>At least four pictures, photos and/or drawings are used, relating to the main idea (with explanations when necessary).</li> <li>Four interesting facts are included.</li> </ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Your poster is hard to interpret and the main idea is unclear.</li> <li>Fewer than four images are used. Their relevance is not adequately explained.</li> <li>Fewer than four facts are included, or their relevance is unclear.</li> </ul>

4. Now that you have completed your beautiful, compelling poster, it is time for you and your group to present it. You will be grouped with folks who have not read the same section. You have two tasks. You and you group will need to present your poster and the concepts it covers to the others. You will also need to take notes when your classmates present their posters to you. Please take notes here:

Topic of presentation (please circle one):

Human Costs, Economic Costs, Organizational Costs:
1. Main Idea:
2. Two examples to support this:

Topic of presentation (please circle one):

Human Costs, Economic Costs, Organizational Costs:
1. Main Idea:
2. Two examples to support this:

